

Telephone solicitations have reached epidemic proportions and now constitute a form of assault. Consumers need the ability to EASILY opt out of all telephone solicitations. Consumers can easily opt-IN and out for organizations that they regularly do business with, such as the companies they have credit cards from. Opting out from general marketers would help restore some measure of privacy and improve what little family time people have at home.

Thank you.